

PENNSYLVANIAN DISTILLERY OFFERS 'SEASONAL' GIN LINE

25th July, 2016 by Annie Hayes

Brandywine Branch Distillers has launched The Revivalist Gins, a four-strong small batch grain-to-glass portfolio designed to reflect the seasons of the year.

The Revivalist Gins comprises four expressions: Equinox, Summertide, Harvest, and Solstice, and represent the inaugural portfolio from new micro distillery, Brandywine Branch Distillers, located in Pennsylvania's Chester County.

The distillery creation, build and execution came to life under the eye of Master Blender and industry spirits expert Riannon Walsh. All facets of the distillery and its portfolio of products is her creation and one which showcases her unique talents.

Designed to be enjoyed in cocktails as well as sipped, the gins are not intended to be enjoyed only in the season after which they are named, but rather offer a year-round flavour spectrum that "echoes the natural progression of the seasons", to offer something for every palate.

Distilled entirely on site under the eye of managing director of production and master blender at Brandywine Branch Distillers, Riannon Walsh; each gin expression is created from barley, wheat grains and botanicals, and has a foundation of juniper, angelica and coriander.
